

Activated Kart Transponder Instruction Manual

The activated transponder operates using an internal lithium battery. There are two LEDs, one green and one red on the transponders. When the transponder has been activated and is in the on state, the green LED will blink once a second. When the battery is starting to run low the red LED will blink once per second. When the transponder is within the activator's signal range the green LED will flicker rapidly.

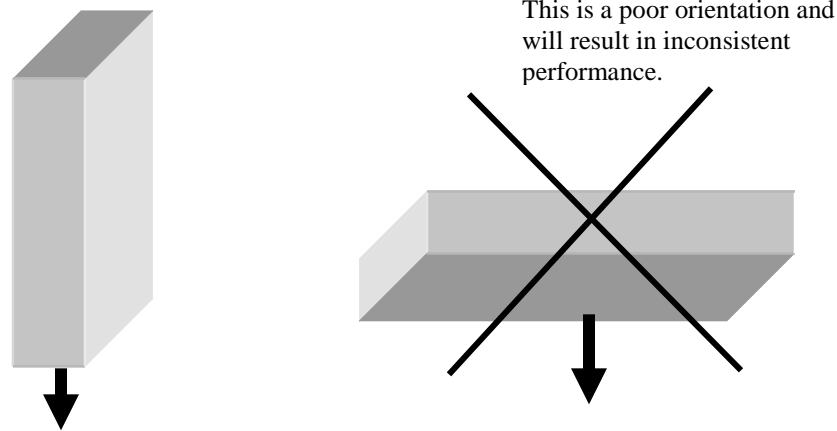

Fig 1 Activated Kart Transponder

Activated transponders may be mounted to the vehicle with zip ties and pouches.

Note: Be sure to securely fasten the transponder to the vehicle before use. Unsecured transponders can be hazardous if they fall on the track.

The best possible orientation of the transponders is shown below in Fig 2. It is important that the transponder has no metal or carbon fiber between it and the track surface. Metal and carbon fiber will block the signal emanating from the transponder and the system will not be able to pick up crossing transponders.

The label side should be readable and in upright direction. No metal should be between the label and the track.

Fig 2 Orientation

- Label side of the transponder is upright and readable. It does not matter which way the lights face. Those are just indicators of battery life.

Note: There are other transponders, such as the rechargeable transponder, that use a different orientation. Be careful about mixing the orientations.

- No metal or carbon fiber between transponder and track. The transponder must have a clear shot to the ground.

Note: Signals can go through plastic so it is possible to use a piece of plastic as a mounting plate.

Recessing the transponder can create problems such as shown below.

Poor location: Narrow window for detection. The signal can't be seen well.

Good location: No metal to block the signal. The detection window is very wide.
